REMARKS

Applicants are submitting herewith two additional documents that have been identified that provide further evidence for an early conception of the claimed subject matter. Both of the enclosed documents are internal research papers written by undergraduate students working in the inventors' laboratory and under the inventors' direction and control. In particular, these documents demonstrate early work conducted under the inventors' direction and control with respect to the isolation and characterization of the zebrafish myosin light chain promoter and the zebrafish skeletal muscle-specific promoter. These documents were not distributed outside of the inventors' department and were not in any way catalogued or placed into the library of the underlying institution, the National University of Singapore. The Examiner is requested to consider and make these documents of record.

Respectfully submitted,
